Short description

Since 2012, I have been working primarily in the field of directing and material development. I attach great importance to the creative freedom that the image and sound levels have for the content to be conveyed. It is my conviction that film, like no other medium, is able to provide viewers with an emotional journey and an encounter with their own inner world, while at the same time creating a communal experience. I have also been working as a writing consultant since 2016 in both screen- and fictional, academic writing and as a copywriter.
