

Plan de Corones

Description

Plan de Corones is a skiing mountain at an elevation of 2,275 metres that is located south of the Bruneck City. It comprises 116 kilometres of runs and 32 state-of-the-art lifts. At the top is the Concordia peace bell. At Belvedere Summit Station, which is situated at 2,230 metres, there is a snow park with an 800-metre-long line. Lifts run from Brunico (Bruneck), Perca (Percha), Valdaora (Olang) and San Vigilio di Marebbe (St. Vigil in Enneberg). In summer, Plan de Corones is ideal for walking and cycling. There is also downhill trail for biking that runs 7 km in length, with an altitude difference of 1,300 metres. One of the legs of the 2010 Giro d'Italia ran through Plan de Corones.
