

St. Sisinius Sports Centre

Description

The hallmark of the sports centre in Lasa is its elegant, functional architecture. The complex, which sits on a long natural stone footing on the edge of the playing field, comprises changing rooms, a shooting range, a fitness room, restaurant and covered stands for spectators, all under the same large jutting roof. Designed in steel, glass and wood by the architect from Val Venosta Arnold Gapp, the building is an alpine homage to the architecture of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe.
